THE WINE. If anybody in these mountains knows the true story of Grizzly Adam, that'd be me. He fled California, accused of a crime he didn't commit: making flabby Pinots. Beaten down and dyin' of thirst, he came upon an orphaned elk calf in the foothills of the Oregon Coast Range. Now that wilderness ain't no place for a greenhorn, but he and that elk became best friends. Little by little Grizzly Adam regained his strength on a special blend of Pinot Noir that combines the raw power of Mount Richmond with the earthy finesse of Five Mountain. Together they became a legend.

THE WINERY. One of the founding wineries of the Willamette Valley, family-owned and operated Elk Cove Vineyards was the first vineyard in the Yamhill-Carlton AVA. Adam Campbell is a second-generation owner/winemaker and fifth-generation Oregon farmer specializing in Pinot Noir and cool-climate white wines. Elk Cove sources fruit from their six 100% estate-grown, sustainably farmed vineyard sites located across the northern Willamette Valley.
