“The 2022 vintage in Oregon’s Willamette Valley offered its long-standing fans and collectors a return to the region’s classic conditions. While an April frost and cold May delayed ripening and had some winemakers sweating; the finish was beautiful and the wines are brilliant.

The Pinot Noirs show an outstanding confidence across the Valley’s appellations. The cool and prolonged growing season has helped create wines with tremendous freshness that are balanced with ample concentration.

As the saying goes, it’s not how you start that’s important, but where you finish. The 2022 vintage in the Willamette Valley had a finish that was simply perfect.”
